

SAME CREW. BIGGER MISSION.

Flight Schedule Pro is now powered by Pilotbase

WHAT THIS MEANS

We, the team who make Flight Schedule Pro and LogTen, are changing our name to Pilotbase. It's the same people, same pilots, and same tools you rely on behind the scenes – and nothing about our commitment to flight schools is changing.

In fact, we're doubling down on our investment in flight training success to expand on the ways we support flight schools.

WHY WE'RE MAKING THIS CHANGE

Today, flight training and the pilot career journey are more complex than ever before. Flight schools are being asked to do more than manage aircraft and instructors – to help students stay on track, secure financing, build hours, and get hired.

You don't have to take it all on alone.

Enter Pilotbase. We're building a pilot experience platform to support the evolving needs of our customers. It's the Flight Schedule Pro you rely on and so much more.

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR YOU

WHAT'S NOT CHANGING:

Flight Schedule Pro is not going anywhere. Besides a new logo and a new name, there are no changes to your workflows, data, contracts, support team, or daily workflows today.

WHAT'S COMING SOON:

Flight Schedule Pro is one part of our new Pilotbase platform. Also on the platform? Powerful data to sync training ops with student progress. Greater access to finance partners. Compliance and safety insights to improve performance. And career pathways and connections to job opportunities for pilots.

WHAT TO EXPECT & WHEN

FEBRUARY 25TH

Our company starts using the Pilotbase name, and logos change to “Flight Schedule Pro by Pilotbase” in our product.

MID MARCH

All customers are invited to a webinar to learn more about the upcoming Pilotbase platform. The waitlist to beta trial the Pilotbase platform is open to interested customers.
